THE LADIES OF NOTRE DAME AND SAINT MARY'S COLLEGE

VOLUME 52

APRIL 2018

From the PRESIDENT . . .

Happy Spring! I hope everyone is having a Blessed Easter Season!

The Scholarship Luncheon in early March was so enjoyable! I loved hearing the young women, our ambitious scholarship recipients, speak about their studies and future plans. Dean Margaret Dubrowolska-Furdyna clearly charmed everyone in the room as she shared some interesting and thought-provoking stories. Thanks to Bobbie Corke, Mary Lou Derwent, and Elaine Nicgorski for organizing this lovely event.

The Spring Tea, cleverly named "Keys and Teas," is on Sunday, May 6. We are in for a real treat with the Murdy Family Organ tour and tea in the nearby Remick Commons. Thanks to Rose Carroll and Committee for organizing this event.

Fr. Thomas Blantz, our chaplain, will preside at the Annual Memorial Mass at Saint Mary's on May 3 at the Chapel in Regina Hall. And our Annual Business Meeting will be held on Wednesday, April 25 at 7:00 PM in Welsh Parlor, Haggard Hall at Saint Mary's College.

I hope to see you at some fun events and activities during April and May before we take the summer hiatus. Jump in and try something new, and make friends along the way!

It has been a real pleasure and an honor serving as the President of the Ladies of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. Thank you for your warm support and friendship.

God bless you and your families,

Mary Fran Kitz

CREATIVE COOKING

So, Easter is almost here, and another season of culinary adventures is slowly drawing to a close. This past year, we have worked (and nibbled!) our way through a number of legacy recipes of famous chefs (Ina Garten, Ruth Reichl, Martha Stewart, Ming Tsai, Rick Bayless, and Emeril Lagasse). Most recently, we welcomed spring with an Indian-themed dinner inspired by Madhur Jaffrey. We have two more meals scheduled this cooking season: an April 14 brunch featuring recipes of Rachel Ray, and a free-form, potluck-style planning meeting on May 8. If anyone in the wider LND/SMC community would like to learn more about the group, the meeting in May is a great opportunity to join in, meet some of our members, find out how we work, how we entertain, how we roll. If you think you might be interested, I can be reached at <gobak99@yahoo.com>.

Planning Meeting
Tuesday, May 8, 2018

As always, thanks to everyone who has hosted, cooked for, and attended our meetings. You gals really own this: you contribute your strengths but are unafraid to try new things, and you can really put a formidable meal together. And, should failure arise (not that I can recall any, quite honestly), you'd just laugh it off and move on to the next challenge... not Iron Chefs, but Sister Chefs wielding iron, all for a good cause.

The proof is in the pudding, or in this case, in the photos below:

OUTDOOR ADVENTURES

We will begin these trips at Little Flower Catholic Church in the upper parking lot to carpool to our destination. Exact dates are not set yet. Watch for LND/SMC emails!

Boot Lake Nature Preserve in Elkhart

This event will take place near the end of April.

Boot Lake Nature Preserve in Elkhart consists of 60 acres of native tallgrass prairie, approximately 20 acres of savannah, the City tree nursery, woodlands, and of course, a wetland -- Boot Lake. The Preserve is an exceptional place for students and the public to learn more about our precious environment and its intricate ecosystems. Boot Lake Nature Preserve is handicapped accessible. It should be noted that Boot Lake Nature Preserve is not a park, but a nature preserve. There is a picnic pavilion that may be used by individuals and groups.

There are around 4 miles of walking trails through the woodlands and the lake. We hope to explore most of the trails.

Kal-Haven Trail, South Haven, MI

This trip will take place in May.

Kal-Haven Trail State Park is a 34-mile crushed limestone path connecting South Haven and Kalamazoo. The trail meanders through wooded areas, past farmlands and over rivers and streams. Trail highlights include a camelback bridge and covered bridge.

The trail follows the railbed laid down in 1870 for the Kalamazoo & South Haven Railroad. Opened in 1991, the trail is one of the oldest conversions in Michigan. Old depots serve as trail-side visitor centers in Bloomingdale and South Haven, and an old red caboose offers trailhead services on the outskirts of Kalamazoo. The majority of the route is crushed slag and limestone and slopes gently down toward the lake.

We will drive to South Haven and start walking east. Hopefully, we will cover around 4 miles and then stop into a café in South Haven for lunch.

NEW GROUP - MOVIE VIEWING!

A new Movie Viewing Interest Group will begin in April, providing a forum for members and their guests to join others who want to attend movies together and discuss them afterwards (similar to the LND/SMC book groups).

For their inaugural event, they have been offered free tickets to the Nanovic Film Series April selection. SPETTACOLO is about how a small village in Tuscany has written and performed a summer play about itself, and has done so continuously for over 50 years. The town is, of course, a microcosm of all the problems facing Italy during that time, and, at an even broader level, is about human community itself.

The movie is on Thursday, April 5th, at 7:00 PM in Browning Cinema.

The group's introductory meeting will be Thursday, April 12 from 7:30-9 PM at Wendy's home at 1219 Napoleon, #106 where dessert will be served.

RSVP for a movie ticket no later than April 2

RSVP for the introductory meeting by April 9

Scholarship Luncheon Morris Inn March 3, 2018

The sun was shining on Saturday, March 3, 2018, as sixty-five women gathered to honor the LND/SMC Scholarship recipients and their mothers. This they did well with smiles, much chatter and warm wishes everywhere. After a beautifully served lunch, they welcomed the young women who received monies from the organization. They heard of the three seniors' future plans and past accomplishments.

Associate Dean and Physics Prof. Malgorzata (Margaret) Dobrowolska-Furdyna was the invited speaker. She was asked to address the question "How have you come from being a college student to where you are today?" or "What do you do all day as an associate dean?" She did both. This was done with humor, a bit of modesty, and a wish that "only the sky is the limit" for the three seniors. As a faculty member she teaches an interactive introductory physics to about 150 life science majors. Her goal is to make a difference in students' lives. As a dean her life is more chaotic advising grad students, serving on 6-8 committees, answering emails, being an administrator.

Prof. Dobrowolska-Furdyna grew up in Poland. Since she hated writing and considered chemistry "too much to memorize," she chose to study physics. "In physics, if you get it, you get it!" She got it! However, as an undergraduate, she was severely challenged and questioned her own ability as a student. She received help from other students, and the problems she worked at solving became more interesting.

In Poland, at the Masters level, one chooses either to get a Ph.D. and be a scientist or chooses to teach. As a researcher she went to many conferences, left for the West and eventually felt that she was good at it. She was fortunate to go to Purdue. There she was getting research results, fell in love, married, got a job and moved with her husband in 1986 to Notre Dame. Terrified, as she did not speak English very well, her pronunciation and grammar were poor, . . . she thought that the students didn't like her. However, as the students began to like her, she liked the students in return. She has a 14-year-old son and a great caregiver for him. Dean Crawford offered her the associate deanship. She is happy with her career and is doing less research. Her life is good.

The Dean addressed the latter part of her presentation to the three students. She told them that they have to continue to have goals. Life is not a highway telling you how to progress. She realizes now that she avoided many opportunities that were presented to her, not realizing at the time what was offered. Immediate success is not always the smartest thing that can happen to you. She advised them to continue to have enthusiasm and be curious.

SCHOLARSHIP RECIPIENTS

Lori & Madison Gonzales, SMC '18

Madison Gonzales is a 2014 graduate of Saint Joseph High School and currently a senior at Saint Mary's College finishing her degree in Psychology with Sociology and Intercultural Studies minors. For the past three years she has been the recipient of the Ladies scholarship at Saint Mary's. Throughout that time we have witnessed her story as a student and traveler. She has shared with us her time spent during her sophomore year at KwaZulu-Natal University in Pietermaritzburg, South Africa. This was a life-changing experience for her and she wishes to return to South Africa.

Throughout her senior year, she has been working at Oaklawn, a faith-based residential mental institution for adolescents in Elkhart and St. Joseph counties, in addition to her continued work for the Center for Women's Intercultural Leadership (CWIL) at Saint Mary's College. At CWIL, she has been the study abroad peer advisor for the Cape Town, South Africa program. She has taken the GRE and has plans to attend graduate school. She wishes to focus on learning how to help those with mental illness throughout the world. Presently, she plans to have a gap year after graduation, prior to the continuation of her studies.

Stacie Skwarcan ND '18

A 2013 graduate of Marian High School, Stacie Skwarcan participated in science exploration at ND during her senior year at Marian and found cocaine on money! (See: <https://science.nd.edu/news/cocaine-found-on-money/>) One of the two 2017-18 LND/SMC scholarship recipients at Notre Dame, Stacie is now a fifth year senior working toward a dual degree in Environmental Earth Sciences and Studio Art (concentration in photography). During the past two summers at ND, Stacie has worked with the survey project of all the trees on the UND campus under the direction of the curator of the Museum of Biodiversity, Barbara Helenthal. This survey was last done 25 years ago. (See: "Growing Beauty" <https://www.nd.edu/features/campus-trees/>).

In addition, she has volunteered during the summer as a 4-H leader and project superintendent for photography, soil and water science, and poultry. During the past five school years, Stacie has volunteered as a Science Olympiad coach at Stanley Clark School for 6th-8th graders who are interested in various topics in science.

Stacie's future plans include going to graduate school for a Ph.D. in geosciences. No decision has been made to date as to which university she will be attending.

something very special. She has been able to do science research in two different laboratories on campus: one involving clinical research addressing cancer-related neurocognitive dysfunction and the other doing basic science research elucidating protein folding.

In addition, Harisa has found many outlets for contributing service to the community. As Chapter President for the local Habitat for Humanity she is coordinating events in anticipation of the President Carter Work Project 2018 in St. Joseph County. In addition to conducting nutrition talks at The South Bend Shelter for the Homeless with Social Justice in American Medicine, she has also helped in assembling "flu kits" for those in need. She has "paid back" the University for her grants by working with the Office of Undergraduate Admissions as a Student Recruitment Coordinator and Tour Guide, with the Learning Resource Center as a Chemistry Tutor, and the Physics Department as an Undergraduate Laboratory Teaching Assistant.

Through research, study abroad and extra-curricula activity, she has been able to travel to Denmark, Ireland, Greece and Ecuador. After graduation, she will be attending medical school.

Art & Architecture Tour of the MAIN BUILDING

Cecilia Cunningham showed an enthusiastic group the various architectural details of the French Regency style of the Main Building at the University of Notre Dame. She is a lover of clay, art history, traveling the world and 350+ hours of postgraduate studies in the arts. Her depth of knowledge amazed everyone as they found new details on a building they studied for a long time. She also pointed out the chateau style of the turrets on Sorin College.

Cecilia gave a brief history of Fr. Sorin's campaign to build the Main Building. He secured Luigi Gregori from the Vatican to paint the Basilica as well as the Main Building and described the process of painting the Columbus fresco murals. Luigi even used Fr Sorin to pose for the mural of the Death of Columbus. To plan his paintings for the inside of the Dome, Luigi drew the figures on the inside of a bowl. Also, of note, the frescoes are dry frescoes. Whereas wet frescoes have paint adhered to wet plaster, the dry fresco is painted on dry finished walls that have been soaked with limewater. Nancy Hanson, a former University archivist, also related the story of finding and restoring frescoes of Fr. Sorin, Fr. Badin and Fr. Corby. Everyone went away with a greater appreciation of the Art and Architecture of the Administration Building and how the events and understandings of the time influenced the art.

Friendship in the Winter Months with LND/SMC

Conversation flowed at a wine tasting event at the home of Heather Hakanen.

As part of a great event, newcomers and members voted on the prices of the various wines they tasted. Only Crickett Gibbons had them all correct!

The friendship continues this spring. In this newsletter, learn about all of our events and activities scheduled for the coming months. To keep in touch over the summer, visit our website <www.lndsmc.org>. Become a member and receive emails with event updates.

Left: A lovely time was had by all as we had lunch at the Schoolhouse Cafe in Lakeville. We were waited on by our own Jennifer Velasco, and the lunch was delicious! Unfortunately, the restaurant closed at the end of February, but the owner continues to do catering.

Right: Members interested in quilting met in February for the first time and learned proper cutting technique and piecing for a mug rug project. Our future project will be a table runner. Details for the next meeting will be announced in an LND/SMC email.
